Testimonial

ArcRoyal is a privately-owned manufacturer and distributor of single-use Medical Products and Custom Procedure Trays. We supply products Europe-wide, with export sales accounting for 95% of our business. Established as the European Headquarters of DeRoyal Industries in 1992 in Kells, in 2008 we became ArcRoyal and are now 100% Irish-owned.

Strategically located, we are well positioned to service customers across Europe. Ireland has the highest number of people employed in the medical device industry anywhere in Europe, meaning ArcRoyal are at the heart of the latest industry developments and benefit from having access to employees with vital industry experience and global market insight. We are certified under ISO 9001, ISO 13485 and EU GMP vol.4 Part 1.

We have undergone continuous expansion in Kells, and our facility today incorporates a European distribution centre, sales and marketing hub, multi-lingual customer service centre, and a surgical and angiography tray assembly division employing over 200 people.

We have been in operation in Kells for 20 years. Throughout that time we have always been very happy with our decision to locate to Kells. We have been readily able to source the skills that we have needed to support our growth including the linguistic skills that we require for our European distribution centre and the multi-lingual customer service centre supporting our clients, partners, agents and sales representatives throughout Europe.

We bring over 50 buyers groups annually to our facility enjoying easy access to Dublin Airport through the excellent motorway system.

The “quality of life” that is available to our staff in Kells is another key component in the success of our operation here.

We are therefore happy to recommend Kells as a premier business location.
